

The recruitment exam for clerical posts which is going to be conducted by Bank of India on September 26th 2010 would consist of two papers. The first paper would be of objective type while the second paper will check the descriptive ability of the job aspirants. Brief information regarding the papers is given below:

Paper I (Objective Type Questions) 90 minutes duration

1. Numerical Aptitude and Reasoning – 100 questions of 200 marks.
2. Clerical Aptitude: 50 questions of 50 marks.
3. English: 50 questions of 50 marks.

In order to qualify in this paper candidates will have to score minimum 40 percent in each section and overall 50 percent in the First paper.

Second Paper (Descriptive) 60 minutes duration: In this paper candidates will get 5 compulsory questions with internal options. The marks of this paper would not be included in short listing the candidates for the next round. However, minimum 50 percent marks must be scored for qualifying this paper.